Proposal D Contains Big Surprise

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan residents get a third chance to vote on a graduated income tax next month, but most voters may not know exactly what they're voting for — or against. On the surface, it appears that "Proposal D" directs the legislature to replace the current 4.6 per cent flat rate income tax with a 3.9 per cent levy on taxable incomes of $20,000 or less — an apparent tax break for an estimated 80 to 85 per cent of Michigan taxpayers.

But the proposal contains a hooker. After Jan. 1, 1978, the legislature could impose any tax increase it wanted by boosting the tax rate or lowering the $20,000 cutoff level without further approval from voters. In 1968 and 1972, voters defeated proposed constitutional amendments to eliminate the ban on a graduated income tax, and Proposal D is strongly opposed by the Milliken administration, which says passage could create a serious cash-flow problem and skyrocket taxes on some income brackets far higher than the 8 to 9 per cent predicted by supporters of the Michigan has one of the most equitable income tax systems in the country, given exemptions and tax credits, officials say, and to approve Proposal D would completely mess things up. The proposal is the brainchild of the Michigan Citizens Lobby, the group which led the drive to take the sales tax off food and

It promised to campaign for the two-step tax plan if the state raised the income tax to replace the lost sales tax money which the state promptly did, from 3.9 to 4.6 per cent. The current 4.6 tax is scheduled to drop to 4.4 per cent next summer, but the legislature is expected to repeal that rollback. The specifies of Proposal D are as follows.

—During 1977, the tax on the first $20,000 of taxable income ould be 3.9 per cent. Thus a single person carning $20,000 would get the full tax cut, as would higher income families with more dependents — a family of four earning $26,000 m gross income, for example. —That portion of income over $20,000 would be taxed at a rate sufficient to replace the money lost through the tax cut. Most analysts say that would mean a tax of 8.5 to 9 per cent, although budget officials say it would be much higher. The "break-even point" — at which a taxpayer would be about $23,500 in taxable income. At that point, the reduced tax on the first $20,000 would be offset by the higher rate on the next $3.500

Governor Milliken Replies To Proposal C Editorial

Editor,
I would like to take this opportunity in respond to your September 23, 1976, editorial on Proposal C, the taxing and spending amendment which will be voted on by the electorate this November.

I, too, view with concern the fact that over the past several years the rate of growth of state government spending has been greater than the rate of increase in the economy as a whole, and I strongly endorse the concept of limiting the growth in state general fund expenditures. However, I believe that Proposal C is not the appropriate means of achieving this desired objective.

Were the voters to approve Proposal C it would undoubtedly cause a shift in taxes from the more broad-based state taxes to the regressive local property tax. It could also necessitate the rescinding of the state property tax relief program for in-dividuals with high property taxes relative to their total in-come, thus causing a distortion

Is A 'Moral' Policy Possible?

WASHINGTON — President Ford and Jimmy Carter spent much of their time during their second debate arguing about which one would conduct the most moral foreign policy.

They seemed to define "morality" definitely, but it is such a relatively new concept in international relations that's probably to be expected.

But in the past decade or so many people have come to feel that nations owe a duty to the international community as well as to themselves.

President Ford signed into law in June a bill designed to force the State Department for the first time in history to refuse military aid and arms sales to countries which engage in "a consistent pattern of gross violations of human rights." In addition, the bill states that at any time Congress becomes convinced of such violations it may cut off any present mulitary aid to that country immediately President Ford opposed the provision, which was a part of the annual military aid bill. He vetoed the parent bill in May, giving as one of his reasons that provision. But Cogress sent him a similar bill one month later. compromising on some other issues but retaining the human rights requirement, and he capitulated.

A year ago, Congress also tried to inject human rights into foreign policy with a measure that urged such considerations but did not make them mandatory. The State Department refused to cooperate, saying that it was unworkable.

Now, however, military aid will be denied those countries found to abuse their own citizens. Economic aid is not af-A prime mover behind this new concept has been Rep. Donald Fraser, D.-Minn., chairman of the International Organizations Subcommittee of the House International Relations Committee. In the past congressional term, his sub-committee held 40 hearings relating to human rights problems in 18 countries.

Eleven of these countries received military aid during that period — Chile, the Philip-pines, South Korca, Argentina, Uruguay, Paraguay, El Salvador, Guatemala, Nicaragya, Haiti and Iran, South Kores alone received $1.3 billion over the two years.

The question of military aid to South Korea has turned out to be one of the most politically sensitive issues. At Fraser's urg ing, the House International Relations Committee recently unanimously passed a resolu-tion deploring the killing of two American soldiers by North Korean troops and the imprisonment in South Korea of 18 citizens for signing a declaration calling for the restoration of democracy there.

Speaker Carl Albert, in a highly unusual move, removed the resolution from the calendar and refused to allow it to come Fraser then circulated a letter among his colleagues, seeking support, which he plans to mail this week to President Park of South Korea protesting the imprisonment incident.

Fraser believes deeply that when basic human rights stan-dards are violated systematically by a government, the victims may have no hope of redress other than from outside their own country, and the United States must set a high moral standard in this regard The new policy will be something of an experiment. Its aims are noble, but its practicality has yet to be tested.

Their replies to questions involving foreign policy were less precise.

They can be accepted more as a virtue than as a fault.

Neither man's experience in the Senate has drawn upon the subject, and unless a person has some background in a given topic he would do well not to expound upon a theme strange to him.

Furthermore, Americans themselves are extremely ambivalent on foreign policy. It is difficult to understand why the heads of state across the seas feel it necessary to steer north when they really want to go south. Even a friendly neighbor like Canada confuses us. Officially the Ottawa government is as adamant as is Washington against Communist aggression, yet consistently for a generation Canada has sought to expand trade with Russia and Red China, a process which if carried out efficiently cannot help but strengthen those Communist states.

Finally, while there is a strong underlying belief that the U.S. should maintain a clear position in the world's confusion there is great division at home as to how much of the national resources should be expended to maintain that security.

If the contestants left the podium in a standoff on the issues, how did they fare in presenting themselves?

The public opinion polls report the viewers give the nod to Mondale, probably not for what he said but for how he stated it.

Infatuation leaps into bloom. Love usually takes root and grows one day at a time, hufatuation is and thrilled but not really happy. You are miserable when he is absent. You can't wait until you see him again.

Love begins with a feeling of security. You are warm with a sense of his hearness, even when he is away. Miles do not separate you. You want him near. But near or far, you know he's yours and you can wait.

Infatuation says, "We must get married right away. I can't risk losing him." Love says, Don't rush into anything. You Infamation has an element of sexual excitement. If you are honest, you will discover it is difficult to enjoy one another unless you know it will end in intimacy. Love is the maturation of friendship. You must be friends before you can be lovers.

Infatuation lacks confidence When he's away, you wonder if he's with another girl. Sometimes you even check. Love means trust. You may fall into infatuation, but you never fall in love. Infatuation might lead you to do things for which you might be sorry, but love never will.

Love lifts you up. It makes you look up. It makes you think up. It makes you a better person than you were before.

Boyfriend Is A Hazard

Dear Ann Landers: I have a problem I don't know how to deal with. It seems every time .I'm with my No. 1 hoyfriend I get injured. I mean physically. It's never anything serious but bad enough so I'm concerned.

So far I've been hit in the head with a frisbee (twice), had a car trunk slammed on my shoulder, been burned by his cigaret and knocked out of a swinging hammock. I can't count the number of times I've been clipped by an elbow or stepped on.

My guy enjoys a few beers but he never seems to be drunk or out of control. Somehow I feel his beer drinking might have something to do with these accidents. What do you think, Ann? - Ouching But Not Grouching

You are very wise to be wary of a problem that seems to be involving many young people throughout the country.

Herbal cigarettes do not carry the Surgeon-General's warning of potential danger. They should. For many of these cigarettes contain a large amount of chemicals that can cause unpleasant physical and emotional reactions, even hallucinations.

There are, on the open market, more than 400 types of herbs and spices used in the form of teas or in cigarettes. These are available in health food stores and can even be purchased by mail order, by children of any age

Isn't it a paradox that such potentially dangerous substances are legally carried by "healthy food" stores?

Dr. Roland Siegel, of the University of California School of Medicine, says, "Many of these preparations contain substantial amounts of psycho-active substances and their use has resulted in a number of intoxication that require medical attention. He further states, "While the

As a practicing physician, I find that I have tremendous respect for my patients' time. I'm sure that most physicians feel this way.

But it isn't always easy to anticipate how much time each patient will require. A special situation may arise and the doctor becomes unavoidably 'jammed up." To some patients with unusual anxiety, a delay of minutes may seem to be hours. A recent survey, conducted by the American Medical Association, found that the national average of waiting in doctors, offices is 20 minutes.

Freighter Missing In Bermuda Triangle

Little Hope Remains For Missing Ship

Guard officials hold out little hope that a Panamanian cargo ship reported missing with 37 crewmen in the infamous Bermuda Triangle section of the Atlantic Ocean will be found

A search was to resume at dawn today for the crewmen of the 590-foot Sylvia L. Ossa,

Philadelphia.

The ship was last heard from on Wednesday, about 140 miles due west of Bermuda, when she radioed that heavy weather and gale-force winds were forcing her to reduce speed. The 15.028-ton ship is owned by the Ommum Shipping Corp. of New U.S. Coast Guard officials said Sunday they found an oil slick, a lifeboat, a cotl of rope and "a sign board with the letters OSSA on it" near the ship's last reported location.

Ne vessels in the area reported receiving either a distress message or the traditional "Mayday" signal from the signal from the missing ship.

The triangle, an area bounded by Norfolk, Va., Puerto Rico and Bermoda, has for years been a subject of mystery and speculation in tales of ships and planes vanishing during calm weather and of ghost ships druting, the fate of their crews unknown. The official government positheories of malevolent powers at work in the waters.

"We don't recognize any geographic area off southeast coast of the United States that is popularly referred to as the Bermuda Triangle, or the Devil's Triangle," a Coast Guard spokesman said.

The United States Coast Guard is not impressed with the supernatural explanations of the disasters at sea. It is our experience that the combined forces of nature and the unpredictability of mankind outdo science fiction stories many times each year."

Officials have also attributed the triangle's reputation as a swallower of shipping to the fact that, because of its location, the region is one of the heaviest traveled areas in the world.

An air search was conducted Sunday by two Coast Guard long-range search aircraft and one Navy plane over 8,200 square miles beginning from the Ossa's location at the time of tast communication.

Ships in the area were alerted, and an Argentine vessel later picked up a lifeboat with "Sylvia 6, Panama" painted on

"It's not easy to miss a 590foot-long ship on a day with visibility of more than 40 miles and calm seas, so it doesn't seem too hopeful that it's still

GM, Chrysler Talks Resuming

DETROIT (AP) - Negotiations between the United Auto Workers and Chrysler Corp. and General Motors Corp. were scheduled to resume today with bargainers from both sides expressing optimism over progress at the talks.

"There was minor progress," said UAW Vice President Douglas Fraser after daylong subcommittee meetings Saturday with Chrysler, "I wouldn't eall it terribly significant, but it was progress.

No meetings were held Sunday.

Chrysler's top bargainer,
William O'Brien, vice president for employe and industrial relations, said the company also was satisfied with the progress of talks aimed at hammering out a new three-year agreement covering the No. 3 car maker's 109,000 hourly workers and 9,100 salaried employes in the United States and Canada

Fraser said the subcommittees were sifting through the language in the pattern-setting agreement reached between the union and Ford Motor Co. after a 28-day strike.

"I'm satisfied with the pace," Fraser said, "Of course,it will have to intensify" before a

Little Hope Remains For Missing Ship

NEW YORK (AP) - Coast Guard officials hold out little hope that a Panamanian cargo ship reported missing with 37 crewmen in the infamous Bermuda Triangle section of the Atlantic Ocean will be found afloat.

A search was to resume at dawn today for the crewmen of the 590-foot Sylvia L. Ossa,

Philadelphia.

The ship was last heard from on Wednesday, about 140 miles radioed that heavy weather and gale-force winds were forcing her to reduce speed. The 15,028-ton ship is owned by the Omnium Shipping Corp. of New said Sunday they found an oil slick, a lifeboat, a coil of rope and "a sign board with the letdue west of Bermuda, when she • ters OSSA on it" near the ship's last reported location.

by Norfolk, Va., Puerto Rico and Bermuda, has for years been a subject of mystery and speculation in tales of ships and planes vanishing during calm weather and of ghost ships drifting, the fate of their crews unknown.

The official government position has been to discount any work in the waters.

"We don't recognize any geographic area off the southeast coast of the United States that is popularly referred to as the Bermuda Triangle, or the Devil's Triangle," a Coast Guard spokesman said.

'The United States Coast Guard is not impressed with the supernatural explanations of the disasters at sea. It is our experience that the combined forces of nature and the unpredictability of mankind outdo science fiction stories many times each year.

Officials have also attributed the triangle's reputation as a swallower of shipping to the fact that, because of its location, the region is one of the heaviest traveled areas in the world.

An air search was conducted Sunday by two Coast Guard long-range search aircraft and one Navy plane over 8,200 square miles beginning from the Ossa's location at the time of last communication.

Ships in the area were alerted, and an Argentine vessel later picked up a lifeboat with 'Sylvia 6. Panama" painted on

"It's not easy to miss a 590foot-long ship on a day with visibility of more than 40 miles and calm seas, so it doesn't seem too hopeful that it's still

GM, Chrysler Talks Resuming

DETROIT (AP) - Negotiaions between the United Auto Workers and Chrysler Corp. and General Motors Corp. were scheduled to resume today with bargainers from both sides expressing optimism over progress at the talks.

'There was minor progress, said UAW Vice President Douglas Fraser after daylong subcommittee meetings Saturday with Chrysler, "I wouldn't call it terribly significant, but it was progress.

No meetings were held Sun-

Chrysler's top bargainer, William O'Brien, vice president for employe and industrial relations, said the company also was satisfied with the progress of talks aimed at hammering out a new three-year agreement covering the No. 3 car maker's 109,000 hourly workers and 9,100 salaried employes in the United

Fraser said the subcommittees were sifting through the language in the pattern-setting agreement reached between the union and Ford Motor Co. after a 28-day strike.

"I'm satisfied with the pace," Fraser said, "Of course, it will have to intensify" before a settlement is reached.

Meanwhile, GM Chairman Thomas A. Murphy told newsmen at Hot Springs, Va., on Saturday that he thought his firm could live with the same agreement the union had reached with Ford.

"Certainly if it's acceptable to Ford, then we should be able to live with it," Murphy said

Murphy said he hoped negotiations could be completed without a strike.

According to Dr. Ackerman, cervical headache pain is located in the back of the head and upper neck and radiates forward to the temple. Occasionally the pain is referred to the eye, less frequently burning pain is experienced across shoulders and upper back.

What causes a cervical headache?

"Most are due to irritation to the upper spinal nerves as they pass through small partially occuded openings in the spine near the base of the skull," states Dr. Acker-man, "The irritated nerves then pass through the soft tissues of the scalp where they are compressed to the point of pain.

Every time his answer was about the same: the Carter-Mondale ticket was moving ahead in Illinois, and the entire Democratic slate would be successful there.

Finally, after he was pressed on the issue in more than four successive questions, he abruptly ended a news conference Saturday night in his hotel in a suburb north of Chicago.

The subject also came up at a Rockford news conference, and Mondale said, "We have in this state a unified effort."

The Mondale political adviser said the Carter-Mondale forces anticipated that the suburbs north of Chicago, which he said often support Democratic Sen. Adlai Stevenson, would vote for Thompson for governor while also supporting Jimmy Carter.

Dole Claims That Democrats Are Trying To Smear Ford

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP) -Republican vice presidential nominee Bob Dole says Democrats are resorting to "dirty politics" by trying to link President Ford to Watergate and that he intends to "fight fire with fire

Dole has been unleashing that fire as he campaigns across the crucial Midwestern farm states accusing Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter and his running mate. Walter Mondale, of what he claims is a deliberate effort to smear the President.

In response, the Kansas senator has been enlarging upon the theme he used in last Friday's vice presidential debate blaming every war this century on Democratic administrations while asserting that a Carter administration could jeopardize the current state of peace.

"I'm not suggesting that Carter, if he were elected, would lead us into some charge." he told a Sioux City GOP rally. "I am suggesting he wants to weaken our defense posture in the world.

Continuing his hunt for votes in traditionally Republican farm belt states where Democrats this year seem to be making inroads. Dole today planned to tour the Sioux City stockyards and then to campaign in southeastern Missouri.

Dole spent most of Sunday accusing Carter and Mondale of trying to taint Ford's reputation by campaigning with innuenspeaking from the pu!pit of the Colonial Congregational Church in Prairie Village, Kan

Ackerman A patient who can 'put his finger on his headache' is very possibly suffering from a cervical headache. Frequently they become chronic conditions and affect a person almost as regularly as the sun

"The general pattern of the cervical headache pain is that it is present in the mornings, subsides during the day and recurs a few hours in late afternoon," says Dr. Ackerman. "It is accompanied by tender 'spots' in the scalp and neck

According to Dr. Ackerman, cervical headache pain is located in the back of the head and upper neck and radiates forward to the temple. Occasionally the pain is referred to the eve. less frequently burning pain is experienced across shoulders and upper back.

What causes a cervical headache?

"Most are due to irritation to the upper spinal nerves as they pass through small partially occuded openings in the spine near the base of the states Dr. Ackerman."The irritated nerves then pass through the soft tissues of the scalp where they are compressed to the point of pain.

Dr. Ackerman urges individuals with headaches and tender spots in the scalp and neck to seek immediate treatment and care. "And headache pills and drugs are not the answer," he says.

"You must remember," Dr Ackerman notes, "that pain pills sold across the counter offer, at best, "temporary relief," if any at all, and frequently upset the stomach and bring on nervousness. And, over a long haul, they can cost literally a fortune.

Headaches due to irritation of the upper spinal nerves usually respond readily to the specialized care offered by the Ackerman Chiropractic Center.

The governing Labor party is expected to decide the outcome at a convention in February to sélect candidates for elections seven months later. The decision could have a far-reaching effect on future American diplomatic moves in the Middle East.

Some old-guard politicians express concern about the bitter rivalry in the Labor party. Others say they hope it heralds a long-awaited revolution in Israeli politics.

Diplomatically isolated and constantly threatened by war, Israel must stand united. But political insiders say the divisions between Peres and Rabin have become too deep to be mended before February.

personal Publical and differences divide the two men. Rabin is pro-American, a middle-of-the-roader who, during five years as ambassador to Washington, came to admire the American style and respect American might.

Peres is far more-reluctant than Rabin to follow the American formula of trading captured Arab land for political treaties. Peres has always stood slightly to the right of his party's moderate line, a faithful heutenant to Moshe Dayan, the former defense minister who now is a lone wolf in the party.

The governing Labor party is expected to decide the outcome at a convention in February to select candidates for elections seven months later. The decision could have a farreaching effect on future American diplomatic moves in the Middle East.

Some old-guard policicians express concern about the bitter rivalry in the Labor party. Others say they hope it heralds a long-awaited revolution in Israeli politics.

Diplomatically isolated and constantly threatened by war, Israel must stand united. But political insiders say the divisions between Peres and Rabin have become too deep to be mended before February.

Political and personal differences divide the two men. Rabin is pro-American, a middle-of-the-roader who, during five years as ambassador to Washington, came to admire the American style and respect

American might. Peres is far more-reluctant than Rabin to follow the American formula of trading captured Arab land for political treaties. Peres has always stood slightly to the right of his party's moderate line, a faithful heutenant to Moshe Dayan, the former defense minister who now is a lone wolf in the party. Peres has been giving tacit support to Gush Emunim, a movement of Jewish naattists who want all captured annexed to Israel. Rabin mum is "a threat to our

Death Ends Texas CB Dispute

Michigan's Red Ink Alarm Is Sounding

LANSING, Mich. (AP) The state's fiscal year is less than three weeks old, but officials around the state capital say the budget already faces trimming in what they say could be a rough economic Sources say that "unknowns" connected with a statewide proposal to establish a graduated income tax in Michigan may compound the problem.

Officials say cutbacks are a possibility, but note that such an event promises to raise the hackles of lawmakers, who claim that the process usurps the Legislature's prerogatives appropriate funds.

Officials also say it is difficult to predict how much in cutbacks, if any, will be needed until voters decide Nov. 2 whether they favor Proposal D.

That measure would reduce the state income tax rate from 4.6 to 3.9 per cent for a taxable income more he could do." The work of Ting and Richter also confirmed the existence of a new property, called "charm," in the particles of the atomic nucleus. It is a property which, like the physical property of energy, is neither conserved nor destroyed in particle reactions.

The academy said Lipscomb, 58, was honored primarily for his studies in the chemistry of "boranes," the now generally accepted name for boron hydrides, or the compounds of the element boron with hydrogen.

Boranes are a little known field difficult to penetrate, the academy said, but Lipscomb has been the leading figure in advances made there. Scientists say the practical applications of his work are difficult to foresee, but academy professor Salo Gronowitz said a nontoxic borane compound could contribute to the fight against cancer in the future.

Since the "J Particle" discovery by Ting and Richter, an entire family of such particles has been produced in laboraaround the world. Physicists believe the discovery opens exciting new horizons toward a comprehensive theory of matter, which so far has never been produced. Prof. Sheldon Glashow of Harvard, whose theory Ting called confirmed, called it a "breakaway experiment" that has set off a flurry of experiments. experimental "Frankly, physics was pretty damned dull for a number of years before Ting's experiment," said Glashow. He said Ting and Richter used different experimental methods to find the "J Particle."

Richter was born in New York City, was educated at MIT and went to Stanford in 1956. He and his wife have a son and a daughter.

Ting, 41, was born in the United States of Chinese parents and grew up in China. He went to the University of Michigan when he was 20, then moved to Berkeley for research. He ioined Columbia University in 1965, also worked in Germany and now divides his time between MIT and the nuclear center in Geneva.

Lipscomb was graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1941 and received a doctorate in chemistry in 1946 from the California Institute of Technology. He taught at the University of Minnesota before going to Harvard in 1959.

Surprise Seen In Proposal D

share" and balance the burden. But state budget director Gerald Miller said the proposal is "very undesirable," He said the state has an equitable income tax structure through the use of personal exemptions, homestead property tax credits and city income tax credits.

An independent study shows the state flat rate income tax becomes progressive with such adjustments, ranging from an effective tax rate of half a per cent on incomes under $6,000 to 3.4 per cent on incomes of $30,000 and over. Moreover, Miller says, the higher tax, rate in the two-step scheme might have to be set at as much as 13 per cent to make up the loss in revenue

That is because, he said, two wage earners in the same family can file separate returns and get taxed at the lower rate, while a single wage earner making the same money gets hit with the higher rate. Even if they file a joint return, Miller said, the state will be withholding money from each paycheck at the lower rate creating a cash-flow problem until the couple pays the additional tax upon filing a return. That could cost the state some $75 million this fiscal year, he said.

In addition, he argued, it hits hard at the small businessman who gets the higher tax rate, hurting economic expansion. And he said the tax credits now in existence may be lost. "We've got a darn good tax structure now," Miller said. "Let's not mess

Backers argue, in turn, they have taken the dual wage-earner case into account in figuring the tax rates, and that most two income families fall under the $23,500 break point anyway. And they say that must higher-income families with two wage earners file joint returns to gain benefits under the federal in-

Town Periled By Gas

CLIFFORD, Mich. (AP) -Two railroad tank cars carrying poisonous gas derailed and exploded early today, forcing the evacuation of this northern Lapeer County village, sheriff's deputies said.

At least one injury was reported. Deputies said one officer was hospitalized in nearby Lapeer after inhaling the hazardous butadine and acrylontrile gases leaking from the ruptured tankers. The injured officer's condition was not immediately known.

The crew of the C & O train escaped injury, officials said. No reason was given for the derailment

Authorities said 400 to 500 residents of Clifford were being assisted from their homes by deputies from Lapeer and two neighboring counties.

A sheriff's department spokesman said two tankers containing the gas jumped the track about 5:30 a.m. He described the gas as "very hazardous.

Two other cars carrying similar gas were being kept cool by firemen spraying them with water. Three additional derailed cars were empty, the spokesman said.

Local officials were conferring with chemical experts for help in easing the danger of spreading gas. But deputies noted that little wind this morning helped keep the spread

The accident occurred about one-quarter mile west of the village, which is some 65 miles of the gas to a minimum.

The work of Ting and Richter also confirmed the existence of property. a new "charm," in the particles of the atomic nucleus. It is a property which, like the physical property of energy, is neither conserved nor destroyed in particle reactions.

The academy said Lipscomb, 56, was honored primarily for his studies in the chemistry of "boranes." the now generally accepted name for boron hydrides, or the compounds of the element boron with hydrogen.

Boranes are a little known field difficult to penetrate, the academy said, but Lipscomb has been the leading figure in advances made there. Scientists say the practical applications of his work are difficult to foresee, but academy professor Salo Gronowitz said a nontoxic borane compound could contribute to the fight against cancer in the future.

Since the "J Particle" discovery by Ting and Richter, an entire family of such particles has been produced in laboratories around the world. Physicists believe the discovery opens exciting new horizons toward a comprehensive theory of matter, which so far has never been produced

Prof. Sheldon Glashow of Harvard, whose theory Ting confirmed. called it "breakaway experiment" that has set off a flurry of "Frankly. experimental physics was pretty damned dull for a number of years before Ting's experiment," said Glashow. He said Ting and Richter used different experimental methods to find the "J Particle.

Richter was born in New York City, was educated at MIT and went to Stanford in 1956. He and his wife have a son and a daughter.

Ting, 41, was born in the United States of Chinese parents and grew up in China. He went to the University of Michigan when he was 20, then moved to Berkeley for research. He joined Columbia University in 1965, also worked in Germany and now divides his time between MIT and the nuclear center in Geneva.

Lipscomb was graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1941 and received a doctorate in chemistry in 1946 from the California Institute of Technology. He taught at the University of Minnesota before going to Harvard in 1959.

share" and balance the burden. But state budget director Gerald Miller said the proposal is "very undesirable," He said the state has an equitable income tax structure through the use of personal exemptions, homestead property tax credits and city income tax credits

An independent study shows the state flat rate income tax becomes progressive with such adjustments, ranging from an effective tax rate of half a per cent on incomes under $6,000 to 3.4 per cent on incomes of $30,000 and over. Moreover, Miller says, the higher tax rate in the two-step scheme might have to be set at as much as 13 per cent to make up the loss in revenue to the state.

That is because, he said, two wage earners in the same family can file separate returns and get taxed at the lower rate, while a single wage earner making the same money gets hit with the higher rate. Even if they file a joint return, Miller said, the state will be withholding money from each paycheck at the lower rate - creating a cash-flow problem until the couple pays the additional tax upon filing a return. That could cost the state some $75 million this fiscal year, he said.

In addition, he argued, it hits hard at the small businessman who gets the higher tax rate, hurting economic expansion. And he said the tax credits now in existence may be lost. "We've got a darn good tax structure now," Miller said. "Let's not mess with it.

Backers argue, in turn, they have taken the dual wage-earner case into account in figuring the tax rates, and that most twoincome families fall under the $23,500 break point anyway. And they say that most higher-income families with two wage earners file joint returns to gain benefits under the federal in-

Candidate Is Acquitted

TROY, Mich. (AP) - Bloomfield Hills Attorney James Elsman - who was arrested in the middle of his campaign for the U.S. Senate - has been acquitted of charges he violated a local ordinance by putting a political sign on his property. Municipal Judge William Bolle dismissed the charges, declaring the ordinance was unconstitutional. Elsman was arrested in his Birmingham law offices July 22 as he campaigned for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate. He had received some 30 notices that a campaign sign on his Troy property violated a city ordinance. Bolle said the Michigan constitution allows property owners to express themselves politically on their property. Elsman finished a distant fourth - and last - in the Democratic primary.

Welfare Fraud Arraignment

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A suspended employe of the state legislature has been arraigned in Ingham County Circuit Court on charges of welfare fraud. Edna Simmons, 25, stood mute and had a plea of innocent entered for her. She is free on personal recognizance bond, but no trial date was set. Mrs. Simmons is facing charges of defrauding the state of $988 in Aid to Dependent Children payments while she held a state job paying $9,900 as a typist-receptionist for Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald, D-Detroit. Mrs. Simmons allegedly committed the fraud from October of 1975 to January of 1976. A second state employe, Martha McIntosh, 39, is scheduled for a preliminary exam in Lansing District Court Oct. 26 on similar charges. A suspended clerk for several House committees, she is charged with defrauding the state of $19,118 in ADC payments over a

A trim little schooner, 115 feet in length and a 25-foot beam named Mary Ellen Cook, sailed out from Hamlin Lake just north of Ludington on a beautiful, calm day. She was one of many white-winged ships of that era. The weather could not be better, as she sailed with thousands of feet of lumber for Chicago. She made good headway past lofty sand dunes and forests of pine and

Earlier in the year she made several trips to Chicago. This trip took the cake. As she passed Grand Haven she started for the west shore of the lake, making good time. She steered her course for Waukegan and kept her nose into the wind which was from the south. Nearing Evanston, the wind came around from the northeast with gale force. This was the beginning of an old three-day blow that left wreckage along the shores of Lake Michigan from the Straits of Mackinac to New Buffalo.

Those ships which were out in this gale sought shelter in many a port. Lumber and trees were washed into the grinding surf and many cottages were built from the lumber which was tossed up on the beaches. Not only lumber but flour in was tossed on the beaches. ### The Little Sailing Ship That Leaped The Breakwater

There are many stories about the ships and men of the Great Lakes. Here is one that was unbelieveable. Children play leap frog, animals leap over fences and barriers. But the biggest leap occurred in the year of 1883, which happened

ASST. PRINCIPAL: Miss Marjorie Krieger, 35, has assumed her duties as Coloma junior high assistant principal. Miss Krieger was named to position by Coloma school board earlier this month. She has been in school system 101/2 years teaching English and reading at junior high. (Cliff Stevens pho-

A trim little schooner, 115 feet in length and a 25-foot beam named Mary Ellen Cook, sailed out from Hamlin Lake just north of Ludington on a beautiful, calm day. She was one of many white-winged ships of that era. The weather could not be better, as she sailed with thousands of feet of lumber for Chicago. She made good headway past lofty sand dunes and forests of pine and

Earlier in the year she made several trips to Chicago. This trip took the cake. As she passed Grand Haven she started for the west shore of the lake, making good time. She steered her course for Waukegan and kept her nose into the wind which was from the south. Nearing Evanston, the wind came around from the northeast with gale force. This was the beginning of an old time three-day blow that left wreckage along the shores of Lake Michigan from the Straits of Mackinac to New Buffalo.

Those ships which were out in this gale sought shelter in many a port. Lumber and trees were washed into the grinding surf and many coitages were built from the lumber which was tossed up on the beaches. Not only lumber but flour in barrels was tossed on the beaches. This was one storm the natives never forgot. Vegetables of all kinds also were scattered along the shore. It was a blow to owners of the ships that were wrecked.

Piers and roads were washed out on this three-day blow. Over 50 ships were beached and four were demolished

About The Author

EDITOR'S NOTE: George Vargo, a Great Lakes historian and former sailor who now lives at 1499 Jennings, Benton Harbor, relates in this article tthe story of the sailing ship Mary Ellen Cook and a remarkable experience at the Chicago harbor.

Children made tents of the canvas and played in them all summer during the vacation days. As the Mary Ellen neared

Chicago with her canvas spread to the winds, it was impossible to enter the harbor. Seas were washing over the breakwall. No tugs were available to bring the ship in. But the skipper of the Cook had different ideas and decided to take a chance. The crew prayed for a miracle happen. Strategy and seamanship were to play a part in this maneuver. Broaching and falling into the trough of the narrow channel between piers meant the loss of vesse!

Captain Valentine decided on a bold plan. After checking the situation over, he ordered the centerboard raised and the wheelsman to hold her steady while they headed straight for the middle of the breakwall. The crew stood in awe as mountainous seas circled around her hull. The one chance in a million came. One huge wave picked up her bow and another lifted her stern and pitched her over the breakwall. What a leap!

It had been a long road to this place. . . With Pearl Harbor only 11 months old, the grand Allied strategy became clear; attack North Africa, trap Rommel in the desert, open the Mediterranean and outflank Europe: get Hitler first, Tojo later. Roosevelt and Churchill gave the job of getting Hitler to a nice guy few people had hear of, a lieutenant general named Dwight David

With British troops breaking German steel at El Alamein, from the east, Eisenhower a force of $50 ships, 185,000 men at North Africa, from the west. Rommel saw the trap and begged Hitter for permission to withdraw. But the Fuehrer, in one of a parade of errors, refused. Rommel hurled his Panzers at the Americans, who had not yet been bloodied in battle, and broke through the surprised, green troops.

But reinforcements stopped the Germans at Kasserine Pass, and they were no longer asked, "Can the Americans fight?" They could, and Rommel's retreating army was chewed up in Tunisia and the Germans were pursued to Sicily and up the boot of Italy, and it was a long, bloody slugging match through Salerno and Cassino and Anzio and other places the transient Americans would never PLAINS, Ga. (AP) - Jimmy Carter's hometown of 683 residents has a parking problem, because of the tourists and reporters coming to see where the candidate lives. Faced with a doubling of the number of shops along the thoroughfare and a shortage of parking spaces, the Town Council decided Thursday night to end free parking on the south side of Mair Street. The council did not decide when 30-minute parking meters would be installed or what the fee would be. Nor was decision made about the all-day parking permitted on the north side of the street. The action was a response to complaints from Main Street merchants. "The downtown people are upset because of the parking problem," said Plains Mayor A.L. Blanton, who owns a souvenir shop and a down-town restaurant. "They had no problem before he was nominated. Now there is a problem, and merchants are worried because their regular customers are going to Americus (a nearby town) to shop because of the parking.

Mrs. Acheson is a Michigan certified social worker with six years experience in a variety of counseling roles,

She received her B.A. degree in sociology from Western Michigan university and her master's degree in social work from the University of Michigan in 1972 with a major in psychiatric social work.

Wouldn't Try To Kill Again

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) -Sara Jane Moore says, she still finds it "unbelievable" that her attempt to kill President Ford failed, but she says she would not attempt an assassination a second time.

Mrs. Moore - serving a life sentence at the federal prison on Terminal Island here — said in a weekend interview that she felt no remorse for her actions. But she said: "If I walked out the door tomorrow and someone put a gun in my hand, I wouldn't go off and assassinate now. ... There's no political purpose for Killing anyone now."

She blamed her failure to hit on increased security around the President and on her use of an unfamiliar gun.

Rights Of Mentally Ill Is Topic In SJ

The Berrien County Chapter of Michigan Mental Health Society will host a public meeting next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Forum at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph.

David Sweet, program chairman for the society, said Daniel Bronstein, professor of forensic psychiatry, Michigan State university, will lead a discussion on Michigan's new mental health code which became effective in November, 1975.

The purpose of the session is to help explain the rights of mentally ill people and how their rights sometimes conflict with the rights of others and with state and local laws.

Bronstein is a lawyer and has worked with Ingham county legal and health agencies. Co-chairmenoft2e meetingare Sweet, and Robert Tollacksen, a psychologist at the Riverwood Mental Health Center, St. Joseph.

For his Rouge Plant police force (which he renamed the Service Department) Bennett hired tough, athletic men to maintain discipline, smother disturbances, prevent kidnap-ings and rid the plant of socalled labor agitators.

The Service Department maintained a force of hoodluns who stopped at nothing to get things done. Henry Ford did not concern himself with the violent methods of this department, only with the results.

In five years, the department became almost as feared and infamous as Heinrich Himmler's Gestapo did later. The National Labor Relations Board described it as "an agency upholding a rule of who turned every opportunity to his own advantage until he came as close to mastering a billion-dollar corporation as Aaron Burr came to the presidency.

To escape the mad scramble of the Motor City, Bennett purchased 152 acres of land surrounding the Huron River, on which he began construction of a home. When news of the project reached Ford, the auto king insisted on helping plan and build the mansion—both financially and architecturally

For several months the two worked on the blueprints of the Castle, It was decided that Bennett's home would have a complete security system, installed as a safeguard against the many enemies he had made while chief of the Service DepartmentIthe most elaborate parts of this security system. still part of the mansion today. are the three tunnels heading east, west and south from the house, built to provide a fast and effective escape.

The east tunnel offered the safest escape route to Bennett. Entered through a hidden door in the Roman Bath, a long, concrete stairway descends some 30 to 40 feet below the surface. Each step is intentionally mismatched so pur-suers would be sure to lose their footing in the dark.

Exiting on a hillside overlooking a peaceful meadow Bennett could have run to the safety of a nearby cabin.

Another escape option open to Bennett was the west tunnel, also entered from the Roman Bath. Descending a mere 10 feet, this tunnel afforded Ben nett a dry passageway 300 feet in length.

Behind a hidden door at the end of this tunnel were the lions and tigers dens, built by Bennett in the 1930s to house his favorite pets.

Midway between the Roman Bath and the lions den is a secret door concealed in the tunnel wall. Beyond the footthick concrete door is the south tunnel, first meandering under a side road to the theater, then plunging several hundred feet to the river.

AP Sports Writer CINCINNATI (AP) — Catfish Hunter was complaining about the mound in Riverfront Stadium. It was too hard, he said, and he couldn't dig a hole. So Fred Stanley, New York's shortstop, dug one for him and Cincinnati's Tony Perez buried series, which shifts to Yankee Stadium Tuesday night, Hunter had been battered round by the Reds in the second inning and had almost been chased in the third. But now it was the ninth and the Yankees' ace was moving them away from sending the first Sunday night World Series game into extra innings.

Up came Ken Griffey, who has made a career of beating out infield hits. He sent a chopper over Hunter and the mound. Stanley charged in and fired the ball - right into the Cincinnati dugout behind first base. Griffey got the extra base to move into scoring position.

Up came Joe Morgan — and ight to first he went, compliments of an intentional baseball's most dangerous hitter if one doesn't have to.

And up came Perez, who has made a career of turning men in scoring position into runs.

One pitch was all it took -- the out all night. It was a fastball. It headed into left field even

And just as fast was Griffey tearing home with the run that gave the Reds a victory.

"Being down two, I don't think they can win four of the next five," Griffey said of the Yanks, who have managed to do just that twice before. Among their 29 World Series titles are two - in 1956 against Brooklyn and 1958 against Milwaukee when they came back from losses in the first two games. It's been done only four other

"We're down, but we have a very good chance of bouncing back," said Yankees' Manager Billy Martin, "It's happened before and it can happen again."

"When he got away from us in the third," Reds Manager Reds Manager Sparky Anderson said, "I thought he had us for the rest of over New York pitching for clothestine hits, some of them the night."

He very nearly did. Except for a fourth-inning triple by Morgan and an eighth-inning single by Bench, Catfish was untouchable

Meanwhile, the Yanks were starting to touch Fred Norman, the Reds' little left-hander.

They nudged him for a run in the fourth on singles by Thur-man Munson, Chris Chambliss and Graig Nettles, but let him off a one-out-and-two-on hook.

Anderson gave him the hook in the seventh as New York scored twice to tie at 3-3. Willie double scored the first run and when Roy White also singled was gone. Jack Billingham came on and gave up Munson's grounder that sent Stanley home with the tving run. Now it was the ninth. The ians were clapping — perhaps to keep warm as well as to generate some heat from the Reds. The temperature was in the low 40s.

Concepcion flied out. Pete Rose flied out.

And Griffey very nearly grounded out — but not quite. "He's got 38 infield hits." Stanley said of Griffey. "I know he can run. He would have been out on a good throw. His speed had everything to do with the play. If I don't hurry, he's safe anyway. The best thing I can do is get the ball, get rid of it and hope I get off a good throw." He didn't. The half and Grif

Morgan was up next. "Catfish was having pretty good luck with Perez and I'd rather pitch to him than the other guy, Martin said of Morgan. He conferred with Hunter. "He had it in his mind to walk Morgan," Catfish said of his manager. and I wanted to do the same thing.

Rose summed up the quandry brilliantly. "You've got to walk the best hitter in baseball to get the best clutch hitter in baseball," he said.

And Morgan chimed in: "I wanted to hit. But I'm glad Tony was up there. He delivers."

Now it was Perez' turn. "I was looking for a fastball," said the man who, for the past 10 years, had driven in 90 runs or more. "Three other times he'd gotten me out with the fastball. And the more he throws, the stronger he gets."

He threw only one more pitch. It was a fastball. "I just got it in the wrong place, belt high and not out away from him enough," Hunter said.

In an instant it was in left field. White was charging the ball and Griffey was charging around third.

CINCINNATI (AP) - Catfish Hunter was complaining about the mound in Riverfront Stadium. It was too hard, he said, and he couldn't dig a hole. So Fred Stanley, New York's shortstop, dug one for him and Cincinnati's Tony Perez buried victory in County Two of the orld Series on a entity Sunday might, giving the Reds a 2-0 advanlage in the best-of-seven series, which shifts to Yankee Stadium Tuesday night.

Hunter had been battered around by the Reds in the second inning and had almost been chased in the third. But now it was the ninth and the Yankees' ace was moving them Sunday night World Series game into extra innings.

Up came Ken Griffey, who has made a career of beating out infield hits. He sent a chopper over Hunter and the mound. Stanley charged in and fired the ball - right into the Cincinnati dugout behind first base. Griffey got the extra base to move into scoring position.

Un came Joe Morgan - and right to first he went, compliments of an intentional walk. One doesn't pitch to baseball's most dangerous hitter if one doesn't have to.

And up came Perez, who has made a career of turning men in scoring position into runs.

One pitch was all it took - the one that had been getting him out all night. It was a fastball. It

There were two outs, one came to the plate fast and pened to the Yanks in the first away from sending the first headed into left field even

And just as fast was Griffey, tearing home with the run that gave the Reds a victory.

'Being down two, I don't think they can win four of the next five," Griffey said of the Yanks, who have managed to do just that twice before. Among their 29 World Series titles are two - in 1956 against Brooklyn and 1958 against Milwaukee when they came back from losses in the first two games. It's been done only four other

'We're down, but we have a very good chance of bouncing back," said Yankees' Manager Billy Martin. "It's happened before and it can happen

When he got away from us in the third," Reds Manager Sparky Anderson said, "I thought he had us for the rest of the night.

He very nearly did. Except for a fourth-inning triple by Morgan and an eighth-inning single by Bench, Catfish was untouchable

Meanwhile, the Yanks were starting to touch Fred Norman, the Reds' little left-hander.

They nudged him for a run in the fourth on singles by Thurman Munson, Chris Chambliss and Graig Nettles, but let him off a one-out-and-two-on hook.

Anderson gave him the hook in the seventh as New York scored twice to tie at 3-3. Willie Randolph's single and Stanley's double scored the first run and when Roy White also singled, Norman was gone. Jack Billingham came on and gave up Munson's grounder that sent Stanley home with the tying

Now it was the ninth. The fans were clapping - perhaps to keep warm as well as to generate some heat from the Reds. The temperature was in the low 40s.

Concepcion flied out. Pete Rose flied out.

And Griffey very nearly grounded out - but not quite. "He's got 38 infield hits,"

Stanley said of Griffey. "I know he can run. He would have been out on a good throw. His speed had everything to do with the play. If I don't hurry, he's safe anyway. The best thing I can do is get the ball, get rid of it and hope I get off a good throw."

He didn't. The ball and Griffey crossed first almost simultaneously. But the ball shot into the Reds' dugout and Griffey was waved to second by umpire Bill Deegan.

"It hit a hole where the gate is lower than the stands, so he went to second," Martin said. "He wouldn't have gotten to cond normally Morgan was up next, "Catfish was having pretty good luck with Perez and I'd rather pitch to him than the other guy.' Martin said of Morgan. He conferred with Hunter. "He had it in his mind to walk Morgan,' Catfish said of his manager, "and I wanted to do the same thing.'

Rose summed up the quandry brilliantly. "You've got to walk the best hitter in baseball to get to the best clutch hitter in baseball," he said.

And Morgan chimed in: "I wanted to hit. But I'm glad Tony was up there. He delivers.

Now it was Perez' turn. "I was looking for a fastball." said the man who, for the past 10 years, had driven in 90 runs or more. "Three other times he'd gotten me out with the fastball. And the more he throws, the stronger he gets."

He threw only one more pitch. It was a fastball. "I just got it in the wrong place, belt high and not out away from him

'I knew Roy's arm wasn't that strong," Griffey said. "As soon as I saw the ball was hit, I was gone.

Benson Only Returning Hoosier Starter

BLOOMINGTON, 1nd. (AP) "We won't change anything sically," says Indiana University basketball Coach Bobby Knight, "We'll just be changing the players."

The defending NCAA champion Hoosiers, with 6-foot-11 All-American center Kent Benson the only returning starter, began practice Friday for the 1976-77 season. "Beyond Benson, I have no

Benson, who averaged 17.3 points and led the Big Ten in field goal percentage at .606 last year, will be out of practice for about a week because of a slight knee sprain.

But, with the loss of All-American forward Scott May. Quinn Buckner and Bobby Wilkerson and forward Tom Abernethy, the bulk of responsibility will fall on Benson's broad shoulders if the Hoosiers hope to win their fifth straight conference crown and a at another national title.

"It's something I've been looking forward to very much being the team leader and team captain," said Benson, the only senior on the Hoosier squad. "It'll be a totally different team because we have totally different personnel and a lot of good freshmen.

"I'll just go out each game and play as hard as I possibly can and try not to let the publicity bother me," said the redhaired, 245-pounder, most valuable player in the NCAA tournament last March.

Despite the loss of the four starters, Indiana's prospects may not be as dim as some foes might hope. The Hoosiers, who finished 32-0 last year, have a flock of experienced reserves back, plus six promising freshmen-four of whom were listed among the nation's top 40 recruits in an annual survey for The Associated Press.

Bartalone Keys 26-12 Victory

Laker Rally Tops Bisons

BY PAUL MORGAN Staff Sports Writer

New Buffalo almost pulled off the football upset of the year Saturday night. Unfortunately, the Bisons had to play the second half.

Lake Michigan Catholic scored twice in the last half to break a 12-12 halftime deadlock and beat New Buffalo 26-12 at Dickinson Stadium on the Lakers' Homecoming.

Catholic's Gary Bartalone, the area's leading rusher, did what's becoming expected of him. He gained 175 yards on 27 carries and scored two touchdowns to help the Lakers gain their fourth win in five games. They are 3-1 in the Red Arrow

New Buffalo now has a 22game losing streak, with five of them coming this season.

Lakers' head coach Terry Rose felt part of his team's problem against the Bisons was the fact that they were still line. Two plays later, Bartalone away. Bartalone capped a 10thinking about last week's loss to Hartford. "Mentally, we were still down from last week No matter what we said or did, the kids were still thinking about

They got the ball back when junior John Spear recovered a fumble on the Bisons' 12-yard carried it over from the five and the Lakers had a 12-0 lead.

But New Buffalo was anything but dead. The Bisons ran off 11 plays and got down to the Lakers' 32, but the drive stalled and they had to punt. A Laker touched the ball at the 18 and New Buffalo jumped on the now live ball and recovered it.

Six plays later, Andy Brandon went over left tackle from three yards out for a touchdown with 6:45 left in the half

The Bisons stopped Catholic up and got the ball back on their own 49-yard line after a 15 yard runback of a punt by Mark D'Amato. On the first play, Rogers hit Roger Lijewski with a screen pass at the Lakers' 45. The outstanding back broke four tackles, streaked down the middle of the field and scored with 4:30 left.

Catholic then scored twice in the second half to put the game play drive with a three-yard run in the third quarter and Bill Couvelis scored on a 13-yard scamper in the fourth quarter.

Bisons' head coach Max Burnell was very happy with his offense. "Our offense definitely improved from last week, and last week we improved from the previous game," he beamed.

"In the second half, we couldn't get it rolling," Burnell added. "They were just too big and strong for us.

Lijewski turned in a spectacular performace for New Buffalo on defense. The junior was in Catholic's backfield most of the night. He also made several solo tackles on Bartalone that saved big gains.

"Roger is just very quick," Burnell commented. "And in the open field on offense, not many can catch him.

Although no offically defensive stats were kept, Burnell estimated that Lijewski was probably in on 25 to 30 tackles and Brandon contributed 15 to 18 tackles. "This was the best defensive game we've played this year." Burnell beamed.

"I think our big problem is that we have a lack of maturity," Rose said. "It is a mental thing more than

They feel that there is someone on the sidelines ready to do the job if they don't. But there isn't anybody.

Rose cited the play of Dave Brown and John Spear for their defensive play. Brown filled in well at defensive tackle while Spear recovered one fumble and made an open field, touchdownsaving tackle on Lijewski.

Rose was also happy with Mike Vasta's play. He played the center spot when starter Kurt Weichhand sprained his knee on the second play of the

One of the more humorous plays of the game came after the Lakers scored their third touchdown. Sophomore Clancy Rose, who had two kicks blocked, took a bad snap from center and turned it into two points. The 6-1, 195 pound tackle started around right end, was hit by four Bisons on the two and carried them all into the

The New York Jets play at New England Monday night.

Fran Tarkenton threw two scoring passes - including a 41-yarder to Chuck Foreman and completed 21 of 30 attempts for 288 yards as the Vikings became the NFL's only undefeated team at 5-0-1.

Foreman rushed for 83 yards and caught eight passes for 118 yards.

The Steelers, 2-4, broke a three-game losing streak and remained alive in the American Conference Central Division race, while handing the division-leading Bengals their second loss in six games.

Franco Harris carried the ball a record 41 times, gaining 143 yards and scoring twice. Harris' yardage made him the top rusher in Steelers history, with 4,485 yards.

The Steelers were playing with rookie Mike Kruczek at quarterback in place of injured Terry Bradshaw, Kruczek kept the ball on the ground most of the day, completing only five of 12 passes.

Kansas City, 2-4, won its second straight when Jan Stenerud kicked a 34-yard field goal with 12 seconds left in overtime. Stenerud admitted he wasn't thinking just of this game but was mulling over past

He was thinking back to 1971, when he missed a 31-yarder that led to a double overtime loss to Miami in the playoffs. The Dolphins now are 2-4.

Gene Washington caught his 51st career touchdown pass, and San Francisco, 5-1, maintained its lead in the NFC West at the expense of New Orleans, 24.

The 55-yard scoring strike from Jim Plunkett gave Washington 5,817 career reception yards, making him the most productive 49ers pass catcher ever. The 49ers lost their other wide receiver, Willie McGee, who suffered a broken AFC West-leading Raiders, 5-1, came from behind on a 46-yard Ken Stabler-to-Cliff Branch touchdown pass and Pete Banaszak's one-yard TD plunge in the third quarter. Stabler completed 16 of 20 passes for 175 yards against Denver, 3-3.

Bert Jones unloaded two touchdown passes in the fourth quarter - a nine-yarder to Glenn Doughty and a threeyarder to Don McCauley - as Baltimore, 5-1 and leading the AFC East, beat Buffalo, 2-4.

Buffalo's O.J. Simpson continued to work himself into form after an inactive preseason. carrying 20 times for 88 yards.

Bo Matthews caught a 42-yard touchdown pass from Dan Fouts and scored the winning TD in the fourth quarter on a one-yard plunge to lift San Diego, 4-2, over injury-plagued Houston, also 4-2.

Jim Zorn completed 11 of 29 passes for 167 yards, including a 15-yard touchdown pass to Sam McCullum, as Seattle, 1-5, gained its first regular-season Nt L victory over winless Tampa Bay in a battle of expansion Green Bay, 3-3, won its third straight as Lynn Dickey passed for 226 yards, including scoring bombs of 44 yards to Ken Payne and 69 yards to Will Harrell.

Greg Pruitt scored two touchdowns, on runs of one and two yards, and gained 191 yards on 26 carries for Cleveland, which evened its record at 3-3.

downtown Benton Harbor any night, and I only stated publicly what everyone I know has said privately.

The verbal venora of the city commission statement reminds me of the bitter criticism leveled by the Benton Harbor cluef of police and my present opponent when I was forced to move from the city following a particularly victous and devas-tating burglary at my home Dec. 11, 1974, Prior to my move the city had undergone a near 80 per cent population change retail businesses had departed. I did not bear one voice heard an adverse comment regarding moves of many people and businesses since I moved to Niles. And I did not hear official Centon Harbor respond when the plight of the city was spread across the pages of The Chicago Tribune. The Detroit Pree Press, and on the television camera of Grand Rapids' WOTV in a two-part series. Each of the demeaning treatises expressed the hope that Benton Harbor would come back, and so do I, and so does every former resident of

I especially resent the in-simuation that I "detest" the people of Benton Harbor, and/or the city, in my 5 years residency. I took pride in being Harbor's must voiciferous booster, and served the city in many capacities. I consider one of my best ac-complishments—the 56-foot width of Riverview drive, a fact that may be checked with Benton Harbor's great former mayor, Wilbert Smith, At present. I am proad to be working with businessmen in that area in a visionary project designed to halt a possible exodus of business. Hanging from my office wall in Lansing is a framed copy of an aerial. view of Benton Harbor, a var-sity "B" from the high school, and a first-edition copy of the sheet music of the "Benton Harbor Pep Song" composed by Band Director Burchard Copy is 1021. Issue heaven. Coar in 1924. In my home I have probably the most extensive private library of Benton Harbor history in existence.

Perhaps the most inaccurate section of the city commis-sion's statement concerns my special call on Mayor Pattersen ability or willingness represent Benton Harbor in Lansing. In more than eight years I have been in office. Benton Harbor has received more than twice the state and state-disbursed Federal dollars received by all the remaining cities in the tri-county area of southwestern Michigan combined. All of the programs funded by the described Harbor area. dollars, move across the desk of Senator Zollar and myself. That list could be full of procedural votes on inconsequential, and/or delaying amendments, frivolous amendments and other legislative moves, long forgotten by members, but which could be questioned in a serious light if taken out of context or not presented in the proper perspective. It was further conditioned that the moderator, in all debates I have ever heard of that position must be neutral, would be the Benton Harbor librarian. She was reported by The Herald-Palladium prior to the August primary election as "considering candidacy for

To accede to the demands of the Benton Harbor city commission would be an admission that they are right and I am wrong. In addition, I would point to a portion of my state in The Herald-Palladium, Oct. 15, apparently overlooked by the commission, in which I indicated that at this late date in the campaign I am booked solid to election day and I am surprised that my opponent is not. I would further suggest that the city commission get on with the business of bringing the city back to the prominence it once had in southwestern Michigan, a condition that

The verbal venora of the city commission statement reminds me of the bitter criticism leveled by the Benton Harbor chief of police and my present opponent when I was forced to move from the city following a particularly vicious and devastating burglary at my home Dec. 11, 1974. Prior to my move the city had undergone a near 80 per cent population change and some 90 per cent of its retail businesses had departed. I did not hear one voice raised in protest, nor have I heard an adverse comment regarding moves of many people and businesses since I moved to Niles. And I did not hear official Benton Harbor respond when the plight of the city was spread across the pages of The Chicago Tribune, The Detroit Free Press, and on the television camera of Grand Rapids' WOTV in a two-part series. Each of the demeaning treatises expressed the hone that Benton Harbor would come back, and so do I, and so does every former resident of I especially resent the insinuation that I "detest" the

Two Women Running For Gubernatorial Seats

By DICK BARNES Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP)

Women have an opportunity to increase the number of state capitols they control from one to three in the Nov. 2 elections when voters in 14 sates select governors.

Four governorships, in Illinois, North Carolina, West Virginia and Delaware, seem likely to switch parties. Four others could - in Utah, North Dakota, Washington and Vermont. In any case, Democrats, are expected to hold their nearly 3-1 domination nationwide.

In Washington and Vermont, women are vying to join Gov. Ella Grasso of Connecticut as heads of states. Both races are regarded as close.

Dixy Lee Ray, former chair-man of the Atomic Energy Commission and State Department official, won Washington's Democratic nomination in a blistering fight with Seattle Mayor Wes Uhlman last month. She is facing John Spellman.

county and the favorite of retir ing Gov. Dan Evans, the nation's senior GOP governor.

In Vermont, the Democratic nominee is Stella Hackel, who beat the organization choice in a three-way primary. She was a utility lawyer who then headed a state employment security agency for 10 years before becoming state treasurer two years ago.

Her opponent is Richard A. Snelling, a sports equipment millionaire who is now majority leader of the state House. They've been sparring on taxes and state economic development. Some Democrats have declined to support their nominee, saying she is too conservative Illinois is the only one of the 10 most populous states with a gubernatorial contest this year. James R. Thompson, Republican and former U.S. at-torney in Chicago, is favored over Michael J. Howlett, the current secretary of state and candidate of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's Democratic organization.

If Thompson wins, he'l! be propelled into prominence, at least temporarily, as a pos-sibility for the GOP national ticket in 1980.

Thompson has contrasted his record as a prosecutor of politicians and organized crime figures to what he has cast as Howlett's image as an agent of the Daley organization. Howless defeated mayerick

Democrat Gov. Daniel Walker in a bitterly contested primary last March. The battle aggravated wounds within the already fractions Illinois Democratic party, and it was months before Walker even stated that he would back Howlett.

The candidates have clashed over taxes, with Howlett promising no new levies and Thompson saying he can't promise what might or might of selected areas in the state shows Thompson leading Holwett by 60.9 per cent to 39.1 per

Utah Republican Atty. Gen. succeed three-term Democratic Gov. Calvin L. Rampton.

In North Dakota, incumbent Democrat Arthur A. Link is considered ahead of Public Service Commission president Richard Elkin, Elkin's main issue is Link's alleged indecisiveness on coal development. Link has won 28 straight elections since entering politics 30 years ago.

John D. Rockefeller IV, who lost a run for the West Virginia governorship four years ago, is the favorite this time over former Republican Gov. Cecil H. Underwood. Rockefeller is a nephew of Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and son-inlaw of Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois - but he's a huge budget deficit next year.

If the four expected sta-tehouse switches occur and the Democrats win the four closest races, they'd increase their national margin in governorships from 36-13 to 37-12. If the Republicans won the four closest races, the Democrats edge would be 33-16. A split of the four expected close races would throw the over-all total somewhere in between. One governor, James Longley of Maine, is an independent.

Here are the other states with governor contests this year: Missouri:

Indiana: Republican Otis L. Bowen expects to become the state's first two-term governor since its 1851 constitution took effect. A change allows him to succeed himself, and he is the heavy favorite in both parties polls to beat secretary of state

Arkansas: Gov. David Pryor, a Democrat, is regarded as a sure winner of a third two-year term against Leon Griffith, a Pine Bluff plumber with no political experience.

Rhode Island: A recent poll by the Gallup organization puts Democrat J. Joseph Garraby ahead by nearly 2 to 1 over James L. Talt Jr. in one of the nation's most strongly Democratic states. Gov. Philip Noel made a run for the senate but lost his party's nomination, enabling Lt. Gov. Garrahy to bid for the top job.

New Hampshire: Conserva-

Two Women Running For Gubernatorial Seats

By DICK BARNES

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) -Women have an opportunity to tion's senior GOP governor. increase the number of state capitols they control from one to three in the Nov 2 elections when voters in 14 sates select

Four governorships, in Illinois, North Carolina, West Virginia and Delaware, seem likely to switch parties. Four others could - in Utah, North Dakota, Washington and Verare expected to hold their nearly 3-1 domination nationwide.

In Washington and Vermont, women are vying to joir Gov. Ella Grasso of Connecticut as ment. Some Democrats have heads of states. Both races are regarded as close.

Dixy Lee Ray, former chair- servative. man of the Atomic Energy Commission and State Depart- most populous states with a ment official, won Washington's Democratic nomination in a blistering fight with Seattle Mayor Wes Uhlman last month. She is facing John Spellman,

In Vermont, the Democratic nominee is Stella Hackel, who beat the organization choice in a three-way primary. She was a utility lawyer who then headed a state employment security agency for 10 years before becoming state treasurer two

Illinois is the only one of the 10 gubernatorial contest this year. James R. Thompson, a Republican and former U.S. attorney in Chicago, is favored over Michael J. Howlett, the candidate of Chicago Mayor of selected areas in the state organization.

If Thompson wins, he'l! be cent propelled into prominence, at least temporarily, as a possibility for the GOP national ticket in 1980.

Thompson has contrasted his record as a prosecutor of politicians and organized crime figures to what he has cast as Howlett's image as an agent of the Daley organization.

Howlett defeated maverick Democrat Gov. Daniel Walker in a bitterly contested primary March. The battle already fractious Illinois Democratic party, and it was months before Walker even stated that he would back Howlett.

The candidates have clashed over taxes, with Howlett promising no new levies and Thompson saying he can't promise what might or might not be needed. The Chicago executive of the state's largest current secretary of state and Sun-Times' random straw poll Richard J. Daley's Democratic shows Thompson leading Holwett by 60.9 per cent to 39.1 per > Utah Republican Atty. Gen. Vernon B. Romney has a slight edge on polls over Scott M. Matheson, who is bidding to succeed three-term Democratic Gov. Calvin L. Rampton. Democrats in Utah are worried about defections because of the sex offense trial of U.S. Rep. Allan T. Howe and his refusal to drop off the party's ticket.

In North Dakota, incumbent Democrat Arthur A. Link is considered ahead of Public Service Commission president Richard Elkin. Elkin's main issue is Link's alleged indecisiveness on coal development. Link has won 28 straight elections since entering politics 30 years ago.

Democrat James B. Hunt Jr., the present lieutenant governor, is the favorite to capture the North Carolina governorship held by retiring Republican James E. Holshouser Jr. His opponent is David T. Flaherty, former state secretary of resources under Holshouser. Reaction after a debate between the two earlier this month was that they had more similarities differences on issues.

John D. Rockefeller IV, who lost a run for the West Virginia governorship four years ago, is the favorite this time over former Republican Gov. Cecil H. Underwood. Rockefeller is a nephew of Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and son-inlaw of Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois - but he's a Democrat.

Rep. Pierre S. duPont IV, of the wealthy chemical company family, is favored to beat incumbent Democrat Gov. Sherman W. Tribbitt in Delaware. Tribbitt says he's kept the cost of government down, but duPont criticizes the Democrats for late drafting of the state budget; he also assails Tribbitt for continued escapes at the state prison and financial acts that duPont says will create a huge budget deficit next year.

If the four expected statehouse switches occur and the Democrats win the four closest races, they'd increase their national margin in governorships from 36-13 to 37-12. If the Republicans won the four closest races, the Democrats' edge would be 33-16. A split of the four expected close races would throw the over-all total somewhere in between. One governor, James Longley of

Maine, is an independent Here are the other states with governor contests this year: Missouri: Incumbent Republican Gov. Christopher S. Bond is favored to win a second term against Joe Teasdale, a Kansas City lawyer and former prosecutor. Teasdale is blaming Bond for utility rate increases in the state, but the Democrats' party organization' is in disarray

Indiana: Republican Otis L. Bowen expects to become the state's first two-term governor since its 1851 constitution took effect. A change allows him to succeed himself, and he is the heavy favorite in both parties' polls to beat secretary of state Larry Conrad.

Arkansas: Gov. David Pryor, a Democrat, is regarded as a sure winner of a third two-year term against Leon Griffith, a Pine Bluff plumber with no political experience.

Rhode Island: A recent poll by the Gallup organization puts Democrat J. Joseph Garrahy ahead by nearly 2 to 1 over James L. Taft Jr. in one of the nation's most strongly Democratic states. Gov. Philip Noel made a run for the senate but lost his party's nomination, enabling Lt. Gov. Garrahy to bid for the top job.

Montana: Democratic Gov. Thomas L. Judge is favored over Atty. Gen. Robert Woodahl, who is presently under a contempt of court citation from the state supreme court for discussing pending cases in public. Judge points to a $50-million budget surplus accumulated during his term, but Woodahl says that means taxes were too high.

New Hampshire: Conservative Republican Meldrim Thomson is favored for a third term over Harry V. Spanos, former vice president of the state senate. Spanos is counting on a healthier-than-usual party organization and the after-effects of Jimmy Carter's long campaigning in the state, but he is apparently suffering from his refusal to pledge a veto of any state sales or income tax.

SOUTH HAVEN — Kimberly Carol Clark, 18, was chosen Miss Van Buren County 1977 before an estimated 200 people in the Central auditorium here Saturday night. Miss Clark, a sophomore at Michigan State university, is 5 foot 8, has hazel eyes and blonde hair. She wore a full length champagne colored chiffon gown trimmed with green sequins and gold braid, in winning the crown.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John J. Clark, mute 4, Almena road, Paw Paw, she is a 1975 graduate of the Paw Paw high school. She plans to become a court stenographer after college. Miss Clark was also selected as Miss Van Buren county sheriff's posses queen in 1873.

As the reigning 1977 Miss Van Buren County, she will compete in Miss Michigan pageant.

The third annual contest, sponsored by the Miss Van Buren County Inc., carried the theme, "Times of Youth", and included talent, swimsuit, and evening gown competition. The 10 contestants met with the five judges earlier Saturday during personality interviews.

Chosen as first runner-up was Carla Gay Farthing, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farthing, Mattawan. A suphomore at Kalamazoo college, she is a 1975 graduate of college, she is a 1975 graduate of Mattawan high school. She also took first runner-up honors as Miss Muttawan and in the National Blueberry Festival, both in 1975.

Selected as both second runner-up and winner of the talent competition in the pageant was Sherry Lee Pachner, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Pachner, East St. Joseph street, Paw Paw. She danced in the talent competition. She plans to become a dance teacher and presently is attending the Gwen Goddard school of dance, Lawton. She is employed as a waitress at the Village restaurant in Paw Paw. Miss Pachner is a 1976 graduate of the Paw Paw high school.

Master of ceremonies was James McCloughan, a teacher in the South Haven school system.

Serving as judges were David R. # No Major State House Shifts Seen

Democrats Are Expected To Keep Majority

By SUSAN AGER Associated Press Writer

LANSING: Mich. (AP) — Though the parties disagree over how the seals in the state House of Representatives will be split the morning of Nov. 3, they're expecting no major change. Democrats and Republicans are scheming in attempted secrecy to pull off surprise victories in the House elections. But they agree only that at least two lawmakers from each party will have a tough time hanging onto their seats.

Democrats have a comfortable 66-member majority in the 110-seat House now and claim they will pick up at least two or three more members Nov. 2, and possibly as many as eight of 10.

Republicans, with 44 members now, say they will pick up at least one seat and possibly six.

Both cannot be right. But in any case, neither Democrats nor Republicans are likely to exchange enough seats to mar lie secure majority Democrats have enjoyed.

That is despite a big difference in money the caucuses will spend.

Republicans report about $90,000 will be distributed to candidates in 23 key races, nine involving incumbents. That is almost three times the $35,000 Democrats say they will spend in 41 races.

Both parties see Reps. Paul

Porter of Quincy and Thomas Holcomb of Lansing as the most vulnerable Democrats, and Colleen House Engler of Bay
City and F. Robert Edwards of Flint as the riskiest
Republicans.

-Paul Porter won in 1974 in the historically Republican 41st district in the shadow of misconduct charges against GOP Rep. John Smeckens. Smeekens lost the 1974 primary, and Republicans say a "backlash vote" gave Porter his "fluke" victory.

They say they can win the seat back this time with nursing home administrator F. Harold Creal of Coldwater.

But, Democrats counter, Porter is a "good conservative" who has made loyal friends in the district despite his party tag. But they still label the race one of the chanciest.

—Thomas Holcomb, another first-term Democrat, "has had some problems," says Roger Tilles, executive aide to House Speaker Bobby Crim. A brash lawmaker, Holcomb ran into bad press himself for, among other things, improperly using House mailing privileges.

He paid the House back for the expense of the campaign mailing.

But Dernocrats say the 57 per cent victory he had in 1974 could be shaved away to a loss by agressive Republican candidate Michael Walsh, a wellknown attorney and Lansing school board member.

—Colleen House Engler pulled an upset victory in 1974 then faded into near-oblivion during her first term. Democrats say their candidate, former legislative aide Jim, Barcia, can beat her.

Barcia has acquired several pluses Mrs. Engler had in 1974, including her campaign manager, and endorsements from the Michigan Catholic Conference and the Michigan Education Association. And, Democrats say, the 101st district is basically Democratic anyway.

Republicans acknowledge her seat is "shaky" but say she has "enormous personal popularity" in the district.

F. Robert Edwards, say both parties, may become a victim of the U. S. Senate candidacy of Flint-native Donald Riegle, a Democrat. An expected heavy Democratic vote in the Flint district, they say, could figuratively drown Edwards, another first-termer.

The Democratic House candidate, builder and broker Joe Conroy, has broad-based labor

Woman's Condition 'Serious'

Marilyn Howell, 20, of South Haven, was reported in serious condition this morning at Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, where she was being treated for injuries suffered Saturday when her car was struck by a dump truck

According to Benton township police, the collision occurred about 9 a.m. when Miss Howell pulled out onto East Napier avenue into the path of the oncoming dump truck driven by Chester Walkden, 49, Buchanan.

Walkden was not injured. A passenger in Miss Howell's car, Brenda Blackmon, 18, South Haven, was treated and released from Mercy following the accident.

Miss Howell was to be ficketed for failure to yield the rightof-way, police said.

Shootings Leave 1 Hurt, 1 Dead

By JOHN DYE South Berrien Bureau

NILES — A Niles woman was shot and wounded in her home here yesterday and a South Bend man wanted for questioning in the case was found dead in his home later, police here and in South Bend reported.

South Bend police said the man was found dead of a gunshot wound to the head in a bedroom of his home. Officers said a 38 caliber handgun was found next to him and that no foul play was suspected. A ruling on the death was expected later foday from the coroner's office there.

The victim was identified as Grant Martin Jr., 55.

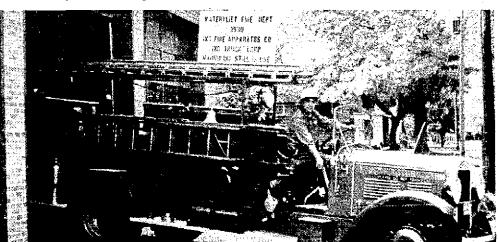

Wounded in the Niles shooting was Mrs. Virginia Williams, 44, 1119 North 16th street. She was reported in good condition today in Pawating hospital here. She suffered wounds of the face and right shoulder. Police in Niles said they were called to Mrs. Williams' home at 2:16 p.m. (EDT) by two of her youngsters. The teenagers told officers they were in the house, heard what they believed to be gunshots and ran to a neighbor's home to call police.

Police said no weapon was found, but a bullet, believed to be a .38, was found in a wall in the house.

The youngsters said Martin had been at the house when they they heard the shots, according to police. Police identified Martin as an acquaintance of Mrs. Williams.

South Bend city police said they went to Martin's home after being supplied information by Niles police and found his lode.

Shootings Leave 1 Hurt, 1 Dead

By JOHN DYE South Berrien Bureau

NILES - A Niles woman was shot and wounded in her home here yesterday and a South Bend man wanted for questioning in the case was found dead in his home later, police here and in South Bend reported.

South Bend police said the man was found dead of a gunshot wound to the head in a bedroom of his home. Officers said a .38 caliber handgun was found next to him and that no foul play was suspected. A ruling on the death was expected later today from the coroner's office there.

The victim was identified as Grant Martin Jr., 55.

Wounded in the Niles shooting was Mrs. Virginia Williams, 44, 1119 North 16th street. She was reported in good condition today in Pawating hospital here. She suffered wounds of the face and right shoulder. Police in Niles said they were called to Mrs. Williams' home at 2:16 p.m. (EDT) by two of her voungsters. The teenagers told officers they were in the house, heard what they believed to be gunshots and ran to a neighbor's home to call police.

Police said no weapon was found, but a bullet, believed to be a .38, was found in a wall in

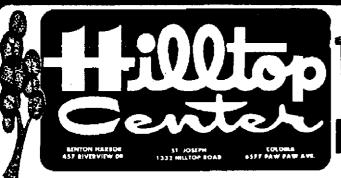

The youngsters said Martin had been at the house when they they heard the shots, according to police. Police identified Martin as an acquaintance of Mrs.

South Bend city police said they went to Martin's home after being supplied information by Niles police and found

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stock Advance Moderate

NEW YORK (AP) — The tock market advanced moderately today, adding to last Friday's scattered gains.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose more than a point in the early going, and advances took a 3-1 lead over declines among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted some continuing encouragement over an onlimistic forecast late last week from economists for the Business Council, an organization of top corporate executives.

But they noted that buying enthusiasm was restrained as traders looked ahead to Tuesday's report by the government on the Gross National Product for the third quarter.

The figures are expected to show a further slowdown in the economy's growth rate from the strong pace set in the early part Today's prices included National Semiconductor, up 1/4 at 33%: Weverhaueser, ahead & at 45, and Citicorp, down ¼ at

On Friday the Dow Jones in-dustrial average inched up 1.08 to 937 even, finishing the week with a net loss of 15.38 points.

Gainers ounumbered losers by about a 7-6 margin among NYSE issues, and exchange's composite index rose .02 to 53.90.

Big Board volume totaled 16.21 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .61 at 98.21.

IS THERE MONEY WAITING FOR YOU?

$20,000,000,000! This is the estimated amount of unclaimed assets in banks and other repositories in the U.S. It is an untapped fortune including estates of people who have died and left no wills, missing heirs who can't be found, bank accounts of depositors who have disappeared. It embraces as well corporate securities plus accumulated dividends, and the property of missing stockholders and quite possibly

It belongs to someone. It could

A reasonable conclusion is that one in every 15 persons in the U.S. has money waiting somewhere that is unknown to him or her, says Theodore W. Roth, head of Missing Heirs International, headquartered in New York City, and author of "Is There a Fortune Waiting for You?" And, Roth warns, the odds are you will die without ever becoming aware of it.

Among the classic tales of missing heirs is that of the late comedian, W.C. Fields. The actor is reported to have opened savings accounts from coast to coast, frequently between train stops while on a cross-country tour. Presumably he failed to advise his family, and legends abound about his savings accounts which still may be accumulating interest - with no one to enter a claim. For countless thousands of New Yorkers, the clock is running out on their ability to recapture funds from a socalled "dead" savings account. The deadline for these depositors to claim their money is merely days away - Nov. 1,

When a savings account on which interest has been piling up has had no deposits or withdrawals for a period of time, the bank considers the customer to have forgotten orabandoned it.

Some time ago, an inactive account could sit in a New York bank for 22 years before inquiries were made. In 1944, New York passed an Abandoned Property Law under which all unclaimed property (stocks, bonds, inactive bank accounts) passed into state coffers after 15 years. In 1961, the span was shortened to 10 years.

In April 1976 the state reduced to five years the period after which unclaimed property held by Banks and other institutions (such as insurance companies) is deemed officially to be 'abandoned'' and to be turned over to the state. Also bank accounts in which there is no record of recent activity are subject to seizure. How many of you face the threat of confiscation of your money won't be known until Nov. I or thereafter. Meanwhile, in an effort to reach you and tell you about unclaimed savings, New York banks have been spending enormous sums in the past few weeks advertising listings of names of unclaimed accounts.

Hindering the bank search has been the fact that many savings depositors are retired and have moved to another area or another state for a major part

If you fail to acknowledge the bank search by Nov. I, you still can get your funds back by applying to the New York State Department of Audit and Con-trol in Albany. But once your funds have been seized by the state, the account will stop pay

Abandoned property in New York has provided the state with a significant source of revenue. Between March and June of this year alone, more than $12 million went into state coffers. From 1944, when abandoned property first reverted to New York, through June of 1976, the state received $316.823,937 in cash, bonds, stock, utilities dividends, real estate, etc.

Only a total of $34,572,101 has been returned to property owners or their heirs.

If you have an account in a York bank which has been dormant for some time -- or know anyone who you suspect might have a dormant account act now! Your simplest

- Inform your bank that the account is current by depositing or withdrawing a few dollars.

- Send a letter to the bank stating that you know the ac-count existed and is there and you want to leave it as is.

- Send in your passbook to have the interest posted. Be on the safe side. If you have left your savings account untouched for a few years, let your bank know that you're still around. For New Yorkers, this is an immediate challenge. For all others, it is a notice to act on time to protect your own money.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Couple Does Not Like Tax Returns

By SAM SHULSKY Q. You have belped us in the past, with the result that our investment income is now lifting us into an income tax bracket. We had been on taxfree retirement income for several years, but now invest ments are bringing in a taxable $4,500 a year, which means we would have to resume filing returns. We'd like to be able avoid this. Should we switch to tax-exempt bonds? A. — A taxable income of $4,900 is normally not high enough to indicate switching to municipal bonds. Reason: the tax on this amount of income is not enough to warrant giving up high taxable income for lower municipal bond However --

If you want to bring your taxable income down to below the level at which you must file a return (and since getting the last dollar of income, you tell me, is not essential) you could consider a shift of sufficient funds to bring your taxable income below the level at which you must file. This will require some arithmetic and the help of an income tax expert.

Dollar for dollar, such a shift may not be warranted. But if you've had enough of filing income tax returns, and you can afford the lower, tax-free, income, go to it.

Q. — I put $5,000 into a mutual fund. The shares are now worth $7,000. Must I continue paying at least $25 every menth into the

A. — An investor may ston paying into a mutual fund any-time he pleases. Whether he should or not is a different matter. If you bought $9,000 of a mutual fund at a market high you could easily be down to $7,000 market evaluation today especially since nearly $800 of that original purchase was consumed by buying commissions.

I'm not quite clear on why you should have gone in with so large a lump sum and why you are now continuing with a small monthly payment which, percentagewise, can prove expensive investing from the point of view of overhead and charges

I think you ought to talk this over with your agent and get a few questions cleared up — especially whether you couldn't do better with larger, less frequent investments. But, in any event, the $25 monthly payment is not obligatory. You're not under contract.

Q. - I'm a widew, 61, whe plans to retire in four years Among my assets are 1,200 shares of a mutual fund purchased at $20.31 a few years age. Should I hold it, or sell sut when it gets back to any cost?

A. - If you check the quota-John Gordon, Mrs. Howard the same price you paid. What Denson, Miss Michelle Remley, puzzles me is that you want to get out of a growth fund and into bonds four years before you will need the income from those bonds. Why the rush?

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stock Advance Moderate

NEW YORK (AP) - The market advanced moderately today, adding to last Friday's scattered gains.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose more than a point in the early going, and advances took a 3-1 lead over declines among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted some continuing encouragement over an optimistic forecast late last week from economists for the Business Council, an organization of top corporate executives.

But they noted that buying enthusiasm was restrained as traders looked ahead to Tuesday's report by the government on the Gross National Product for the third quarter.

The figures are expected to show a further slowdown in the economy's growth rate from the strong pace set in the early part of the year.

Today's prices included National Semiconductor, up 1/4 at 3334; Weyerhaueser, ahead 1/8 at 43, and Citicorp, down 1/4 at

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average inched up 1.08 to 937 even, finishing the week with a net loss of 15.38 points.

Gainers ounumbered losers by about a 7-6 margin among NYSE issues, and the exchange's composite index rose .02 to 53.90.

Big Board volume totaled 16.21 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .61 at 98.21.

IS THERE MONEY WAITING FOR YOU?

$20,000,000,000! This is the estimated amount of unclaimed assets in banks and other repositories in the U.S. It is an untapped fortune including estates of people who have died and left no wills, missing heirs who can't be found, bank accounts of depositors who have disappeared. It embraces as well corporate securities plus accumulated dividends, and the property of missing stockholders and quite possibly their heirs.

It belongs to someone. It could be you.

A reasonable conclusion is that one in every 15 persons in the U.S. has money waiting somewhere that is unknown to him or her, says Theodore W. Roth, head of Missing Heirs International, headquartered in New York City, and author of "Is There a Fortune Waiting for You?" And, Roth warns, the odds are you will die without ever becoming aware of it.

Among the classic tales of missing heirs is that of the late comedian, W.C. Fields. The actor is reported to have opened savings accounts from coast to coast, frequently between train stops while on a cross-country tour. Presumably he failed to advise his family, and legends abound about his savings accounts which still may be accumulating interest - with no one to enter a claim. For countless thousands of New Yorkers, the clock is running out on their ability to recapture funds from a socalled "dead" savings account. The deadline for these depositors to claim their money is merely days away - Nov. 1,

When a savings account on which interest has been piling up has had no deposits or withdrawals for a period of time, the bank considers the customer to have forgotten orabandoned it.

Some time ago, an inactive account could sit in a New York bank for 22 years before inquiries were made. In 1944, New York passed an Abandoned Property Law under which all unclaimed property (stocks, bonds, inactive bank accounts) passed into state coffers after 15 years. In 1961, the span was shortened to 10 years. In April 1976 the state reduced to five years the period after which unclaimed property held by banks and other institutions (such as insurance companies) is deemed officially to be 'abandoned" and to be turned over to the state. Also bank ac-record of recent activity are subject to seizure. How many of you face the

counts in which there is no

ings of names of unclaimed ac-Hindering the bank search has been the fact that many savings depositors are retired and have moved to another area or another state for a major part

If you fail to acknowledge the bank search by Nov. 1, you still can get your funds back by applying to the New York State Department of Audit and Control in Albany. But once your funds have been seized by the state, the account will stop pay-

Abandoned property in New York has provided the state with a significant source of revenue. Between March and June of this year alone, more than $12 million went into state coffers. From 1944, when abandoned property first reverted to New York, through June of 1976, the state received $316,823,937 in cash, bonds, stock, utilities dividends, real estate, etc. Only a total of $34,572,101 has been returned to property owners or their heirs. If you have an account in a New York bank which has been dormant for some time - or know anyone who you suspect might have a dormant account - act now! Your simplest

- Inform your bank-that the account is current by depositing or withdrawing a few dollars.

 Send a letter to the bank stating that you know the account existed and is there and you want to leave it as is.

- Send in your passbook to have the interest posted. Be on the safe side. If you have left your savings account untouched for a few years, let your bank know that you're still around. For New Yorkers, this is an immediate challenge. For all others, it is a notice to act on time to protect your own money.

By SAM SHULSKY Q. You have helped us in the past, with the result that our investment income is now lifting us into an income tax bracket. We had been on taxfree retirement income for several years, but now investments are bringing in a taxable $4,900 a year, which means we would have to resume filing returns. We'd like to be able to avoid this. Should we switch to tax-exempt bonds? A. - A taxable income of $4.900 is normally not high enough to indicate switching to municipal bonds. Reason: the tax on this amount of income is not enough to warrant giving up high taxable income for lower municipal bond income. However -

If you want to bring your taxable income down to below the level at which you must file a return (and since getting the last dollar of income, you tell me, is not essential) you could consider a shift of sufficient funds to bring your taxable income below the level at which you must file. This will require some arithmetic and the help of an income tax expert.

Dollar for dollar, such a shift may not be warranted. But if you've had enough of filing income tax returns, and you can afford the lower, tax-free, income, go to it.

Q. - I put $9,000 into a mutual fund. The shares are now worth $7,000. Must I continue paying at least $25 every month into the fund?

A. - An investor may stop paying into a mutual fund anytime he pleases. Whether he should or not is a different matter. If you bought $9,000 of a mutual fund at a market high you could easily be down to $7,000 market evaluation today - especially since nearly $800 of that original purchase was consumed by buying commissions.

I'm not quite clear on why you should have gone in with so large a lump sum and why you are now continuing with a small monthly payment which, percentagewise, can prove expensive investing from the point of view of overhead and charges.

I think you ought to talk this over with your agent and get a few questions cleared up - especially whether you couldn't do better with larger, less frequent investments. But, in any event, the $25 monthly payment is not obligatory. You're not under contract.

Q. - I'm a widow, 61, who plans to retire in four years. Among my assets are 1,200 shares of a mutual fund purchased at $20.34 a few years ago. Should I hold it, or sell out when it gets back to my cost?

A. - If you check the quotations, the shares are at about the same price you paid. What puzzles me is that you want to get out of a growth fund and into bonds four years before you will need the income from those bonds. Why the rush?

Back Proposal A" on the front page of your paper Oct. 12, 1976. The farm leaders stated that a throw-away bottle or can could cost a farmer $500 an hour in "down time" if he runs over it with a Combine. It could also kill a cow. What I can't unders tand is, what makes them think a returnable bottle can't do the same thing? Putting a 5 cent deposit on returnables will not stop the slob from throwing bottles in fields or on the roadside. These slobs will also contime to discard paper, diapers, plastic, etc. - a 10 cent deposit will probably lead to the dis continuance of soda and beer cans in Michigan. This will take away our freedom of choice.

I can sympathize with the litter in our beautiful State of Michigan as much as anyone, however, I feel Proposal A will not appreciably reduce litter or conserve energy. Let us instead establish stiff fines for the litterbugs and enforce these fines. The article also mentions the "scare-type propaganda used by opponents of Proposal A - in its inferences — of higher beverage costs — inconvenience in returning bottles," Let me assure you, that if we go to an all returnable system, costs will be considerably higher. Some reasons are: Industry-wide equipment change overs to returnable production; trucks can haul twice as many cans as returnable bottles, resulting in at least twice the number of trips to and from producer and to re-tailer, using twice as much fuel, therefore doubling the cost of doing business. The distribution system is geared for cans and non-returnable bottles because of consumer preference. There is less cost involved cans than there is for returnable returnable soda bottles as I have been told, is a competitive situation and is being subsidized by pan and NR sales

An all returnable system will most assuredly mean a sales decline of soda and beer in Michigan. Beer sales contribute millions of dollars of yearly to the State. Only a 10 per cent decrease in sales could mean a 4½ milion dollar tax loss, based on 1975 brewery Can we afford this? Where will this tax loss be made up?

I am appalled by the constant repitition in the news media of paid, misleading, and incorrect announcements in reference to Proposal A (to stop the use of throwaway beverage and beer containers) Just before retirement, I was,

for over 10 years, a non-political civil service employe appointed chief of the Research division of Expansion, later a part of the Commerce Department, All our work had to do with helping industry expand so it could create Michigan's economy, (Earlier I was the first director of conser-vation at Michigan State university). So, I should know the facts about the bottle bill. (Also, I can't be accused of bewhen Proposal A would be fully effective, it isn't going to hurt or help me for long!) Here are the facts:

Eliminating throwaway bottles and cans will increase. not decrease the number of jobs in Michigan. Workers at the bottle manufacturing plant in Charlotte, where management has sounded the usual alarm that the plant will be closed, will still have their jobs; and there years from now if the plant has smart managers. With increasing population and increasing consumption per person, the to-tal demand for containers will not decrease from such a plant as the one in Charlotte.

 Despite implications that if Proposal A passes prices will go up, the consumer can rest as sured that a yes vote will reduce beverage and beer costs. You produce eight or so throwaways for as little as one returnable that will do the same

SAYS PROPOSAL A WILL CUT LOCAL JOBS

I am writing your newspaper express my views concerning the referendum Proposal A. I. the opposition to the deposit on beverage containers. I suppose I have selfish reason: because I happen to work for Continental Can Company at the Shoreham plant in St. Joe. When the plant opened 16 years ago the community wel-comed the new industry into the area because jobs would be created and employment would be opened to the area residents. When the plant opened about 40 people were hired and today 160 people from the area are employed. Over the 16 years many related jobs in the area have been affected. When the company expanded many firm rea enjoyed the chance to install the new machinery. expand our parking lot, reroot the building, put in the additions to the building, install new dock equipment, remodel offices and supply the plant with needed supplies.

Everyone benefits when industry moves into our area. If Proposal A becomes law which depends on how people vote on election day it will determine how long the Continental Can plant stays in the area. The employers at the plant are concerned with the environment just as much as any citizen in the area. We don't enjoy seeing tin cans littering the highways in the state but we don't put them there. If Proposal A passes we are the victims along ith the rest of the residents in Berrien County.

With unemployment over 13 per cent in the area and 25 per cent in Benton Harbor, can people who vote on election day justify putting more people out of work? The proponents of Proposal A say more jobs will be created if the law goes into effect. Any job that is created that pays $6.50 an hour to sort bottles we will gladly take, if we can fight the rest of the employed to get it.

At the recent political rally at Fairplain Plaza, I talked to the candidates running for public office and was pleased that most of the candidates recognized the impact Proposal A will have on jobs in the area and the state and they knew there is a better way to combat litter. To the men, with the exception of David Stockman, they felt that total resource recovery is the

Most people don't know what total resource recovery is. Harry Gast has seen it in operation in St. Louis, Mo. What is done is all garbage collected is taken to a central location and the recoverable metals, glass, and paper are separated from go into landfill. The metals are recycled, the glass gets reused, the paper is used as fuel to e electricity. All this is done and the system pays for itself money. With the state closing down landfills at the rate they are, it is inevitable that the state and county will go to the total resource recovery approach. In the meantime, the proponents of Proposal A singled out only

MINISTER LISTS CHOICES FOR BR

Editor, If I had a choice to be wherever I wanted to be, I am not sure if I would choose to be in the middle of the Pacific ocean in a typhoon or in the heart of the jungle with no weapon or to remain in Benton Harbor, Why, one would ask? Well, I will tell you why with what I believe to be good reasons. If I was caught in the Pacific ocean in a typhoon I would blame the coast guard for not warning me of the typhoon or myself for not heeding the warning and the same about the iungle. In both of the above cases, I would have two choices. But here in Benton Harbor, I began to wonder if I really have a choice. True, I could point to many things that could be done but at the same time I would have to use that non-productive

Well, as long as I have mentioned it I may as well explain it. You see if the if's were productive we wouldn't have the problems that we have. If we could get people to not panic and stay in Benton Harber. If we could get some factories to locate in Benton Harbor. If we could get people to realize that Benton Harbor can be no more than we make it. If parents will accept the responsibility of their children. If we could destroy the buck, the one that we never stop passing. If the ministers could be motivated to the point that they would realize that we have got to live before we die and that the better we live, the easier we can die. That if we want to be respected as leaders we have got to get out front on all issues.

Somehow, we seem to forget that to lead means go first or be in front or play the important What? The important role? Maybe that is our answer. Maybe we didn't feel that the things mentioned above are important. If we could replace the if's with something productive and destroy the buck, my choice would be to remain in Benton Harbor. If we don't change these, I will have to make my choice at a later date

Back Proposal A" on the front page of your paper Oct. 12, 1976. The farm leaders stated that a throw-away bottle or can could cost a farmer $500 an hour in "down time" if he runs over it with a Combine. It could also kill a cow. What I can't understand is, what makes them think a returnable bottle can't do the same thing? Putting a 5 cent deposit on returnables will not stop the slob from throwing bottles in fields or on the roadside. These slobs will also continue to discard paper, diapers, plastic, etc. - a 10 cent deposit will probably lead to the discontinuance of soda and beer cans in Michigan. This will take away our freedom of choice.

I can sympathize with the farmers because I am against litter in our beautiful State of Michigan as much as anyone, however, I feel Proposal A will not appreciably reduce litter or conserve energy. Let us instead establish stiff fines for the litterbugs and enforce these fines.

The article also mentions the "scare-type propaganda used by opponents of Proposal A - in its inferences - of higher beverage costs - inconvenience in returning bottles." Let me assure you, that if we go to an all returnable system, costs will be considerably higher. Some reasons are: Industry-wide equipment change-overs to returnable production; trucks can haul twice as many cans as returnable bottles, resulting in at least twice the number of trips to and from producer and to retailer, using twice as much fuel, therefore doubling the cost of doing business. The distribution system is geared for cans and non-returnable bottles because of consumer preference. There is less cost involved to purchase, fill and distribute cans than there is for returnable bottles. The lesser cost of some returnable soda bottles, as I have been told, is a competitive situation and is being subsidized by can and NR sales.

An all returnable system will most assuredly mean a sales decline of soda and beer in Michigan. Beer sales contribute millions of dollars of taxes yearly to the State. Only a 10 per cent decrease in sales could mean a 41/2 milion dollar tax loss, based on 1975 brewery sales in the State of Michigan. Can we afford this? Where will this tax loss be made up?

When the plant opened 16 years ago the community welcomed the new industry into the area because jobs would be created and employment would be opened to the area residents. When the plant opened about 40 people were hired and today 160 people from the area are employed. Over the 16 years many related jobs in the area have been affected. When the company expanded many firm in the area enjoyed the chance to install the new machinery. expand our parking lot, reroof the building, put in the additions to the building, install new dock equipment, remodel of fices and supply the plant with needed supplies. Everyone benefits when industry moves into our area. If Proposal A becomes law which depends on how people vote on election day it will determine how long the Continental Can plant stays in the area. The employers at the plant are concerned with the environment just as much as any citizen in the area. We don't enjoy seeing tin cans littering the highways in the state but we don't put them there. If Proposal A passes we are the victims along with the rest of the residents in Berrien County.

With unemployment over 13 per cent in the area and 25 per cent in Benton Harbor, can people who vote on election day justify putting more people out of work? The proponents of Proposal A say more jobs will be created if the law goes into effect. Any job that is created that pays $6.50 an hour to sort bottles we will gladly take, if we can fight the rest of the unemployed to get it. At the recent political rally at Fairplain Plaza, I talked to the candidates running for public office and was pleased that most of the candidates recognized the impact Proposal A will have on jobs in the area and the state and they knew there is a better way to combat litter. To the men, with the exception of David Stockman, they felt that total resource recovery is the

Most people don't know what total resource recovery is. Harry Gast has seen it in operation in St. Louis, Mo. What is done is all garbage collected is taken to a central location and the recoverable metals, glass, and paper are separated from the trash that would normally go into landfill. The metals are recycled, the glass gets reused, the paper is used as fuel to make electricity. All this is done and the system pays for itself and in many places it makes money. With the state closing down landfills at the rate they are, it is inevitable that the state and county will go to the total resource recovery approach. In the meantime, the proponents of

Proposal A singled out only beverage containers. The beverage containers in the trash make it attractive to turn to the system because they are

As far as Mr. Stockman is recyclable.

concerned, I find it incredible that this man can be so callous. This man is running for a $40,000 a year U.S. Representative job and with the unemployment figures staring him in the face he would just as soon see working people who make $10,000 to $15,000 a year out of work. Can the area afford to lose a $2,000,000 payroll a year?

I urge the voters to vote no to Proposal A.

SCHOOL DIRECTOR CRITICIZES AP ARTICLE

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter was received with a clipping of an Associated Press article attached. The article told of an Ohio "deafmute" charged with a 1974 murder, who has been sent to a state institution to learn "sign language" before he was brought to trial. A statement, "medically doubtful", in the letter refers to an explanation in the article that the murder defendant has lost his voice and hearing following an illness when he was 18 months old.

Editor.

This doesn't make sense to anyone who knows anything at all about people with hearing losses. Remember Columbus is where Ohio's state school for the deaf is located. Chances are Hunt has known and used signlanguage all of his life. The reporter has probably confused the fact someone demanded he have a sign language interpreter for the trial

Medically doubtful. the whole story is built around very doubtful facts. (Reference to passage in AP article saving Hunt lost voice and hearing following an illness.)

Use of terminology "deafmute". "deaf and mute" "deaf" and "deaf and dumb" are what create the "deaf and dumb stigma" in our society. Play on these terms plus "sign language, hand language, fingerspelling, no voice, murmur voice, deaf speech and mouthing" make up the mainstay of the articles which play the 'deaf and dumb stereotype' This is standard filler sensational type human interest copy that the wire services send down every chance they get. Editors of daily newspapers use this junk because there usually aren't enough people to complain about it to hurt sales Fourteen million Americans have hearing losses. The majority are elderly and have the same kinds and degree of hearing loss that the "sign language" users have. The elderly are so afraid of the "deaf-mute" stigma, created by the media that they refuse to get services from doctors and audiologists. Consequently they just don't hear. The vast majority of children with hearing losses are from families that speak English, not sign language. This is a fact that most of the bandwagon, do-gooder sign language advocates seem to gloss over. These people aspire that their children, including the one with a hearing loss speak the English language. Thus, the largest number of individuals with hearing losses have voices, use their voices, speak the English language and communicate with hearing people. The term used to describe such a person is unknown in journalistic circles. It is Oral HEARING IMPAIRED Adult, Child, Individual or Person. HEARING IMPAIRED is an adjective describing a human. Not the other way around of describing a human by using an archaic handicapping noun. The state of Michigan has formally adopted the term HEARING IMPAIRED in its special education law. How about a break from the

MINISTER LISTS CHOICES FOR BH

Editor If I had a choice to be wherever I wanted to be. I am not sure if I would choose to be in the middle of the Pacific ocean in a typhoon or in the heart of the jungle with no weapon or to remain in Benton Harbor. Why, one would ask?

Well, I will tell you why with what I believe to be good reasons. If I was caught in the Pacific ocean in a typhoon I would blame the coast guard for not warning me of the typhoon or myself for not heeding the warning and the same about the jungle. In both of the above cases. I would have two choices But here in Benton Harbor, I began to wonder if I really have a choice. True, I could point to many things that could be done but at the same time I would have to use that non-productive word if. Well, as long as I have mentioned it I may as well explain it. You see if the if's were productive we wouldn't have the problems that we have. If we could get people to not panic and stay in Benton Harbor. If we could get some factories to locate in Benton Harbor. If we could get people to realize that Benton Harbor can be no more than we make it. If parents will accept the responsibility of their children. If we could destroy the buck, the one that we never stop passing. If the ministers could be motivated to the point that they would realize that we have got to live before we die and that the better we live, the easier we can die. That if we want to be respected as leaders we have Somehow, we seem to forget got to get out front on all issues. that to lead means go first or be in front or play the important role. What? The important role? Maybe that is our answer. Maybe we didn't feel that the things mentioned above are important. If we could replace the if's with something productive and destroy the buck, my choice would be to remain in Benton Harbor. If we don't change these, I will have to make my choice at a later date.
